CHAPTER I'S NEWSLETTER

JUNE 2015

BOB AND BECKY'S PAGE

How's it going--good? The first thing is the change of the chapter gathering will be one week LATER than normal-June 20th at Ryan's Steak House. The gathering and eating time is the same as always. The change is due to the Buckeye Rally which is June 11-13th at Canfield, Ohio. Back in May, we had our gathering at Chapter P's fundraiser-nice to see familiar faces from around the state area. We had a nice ride to McConnelville and the Boondocks restaurant on May 9th. We want to thank Cherryhair for the good lead. There were ten members along with two guests, Doug and Lynn Kurst. Be sure and find out about the big hamburger with the egg on top. The North Central picnic turned out good..we want to THANK all who helped make it a success. A special thanks to Rob & Sue for obtaining the picnic facility and also Denny Carpenter from Chapter V for his grill and cooking experience along with his helper, Chapter I's one and only Cherry Hair. Along with our ACD's, Dave and Sally Slonaker we had our state directors, Rudy & Linda Copeland and Region D's Lloyd & Becky Glydewell. We also had the state COY, Chuck & Melanie Geggie, the state leadership trainer, Doug Kurst, and the state COY director, Lynn Kurst join us. Thank you also for all the NC chapters members who attended. After the NC picnic, some of us attended Chaper T's fundraiser for their spaghetti and meatball and silent auction. Always good to see Keith and Vicki and there members. The next day was Chapter B's fundraiser along with their chapter gathering, brunch, and auction. It was fun to see Randy & Linda Porter at the helm. We understand Blackburn's Trike, the new owners, will be having open house on Saturday, June 6th 10:00am - 4:00pm. It will be a nice time to meet them. Good to hear that John & Shari are back home for a little while, anyhow. Please keep Dave Martin in your thoughts and prayers. He is not doing very well and is in intensive care in Cleveland.

Visual Conflict of Interest

Especially when Accelerating

By: James R. Davis

There are times when your eyes show you what you expect to see and other times when they show you something else entirely. This tip attempts to demonstrate why you need your mind to be 'in the present', and why you need to actively interpret what you see instead of believing what your eyes are telling you.

For most of your riding history you have trained yourself to respond to visual input with almost 'reaction' speeds, to not delay responding in any way because at highway speeds you cover a lot of ground in very short order. Delays (internal debates about what you should do) can result in unthinkably harsh consequences.

Take as a real world example of this the fact that many of us, certainly myself included, cover our front brake lever whenever we are riding at faster than parking lot speeds. We know that it takes, on average, about one full second to recognize an unexpected threat and to decide to react to it, and then it takes additional time to begin doing something - like reaching for and squeezing that brake lever. We cover the front brake lever because that will shave off at least 1/10th of a second of reaction time and, as a consequence, it effectively provides us additional stopping distance between our motorcycle and that threat. Indeed, 1/10th of a second at 60 MPH provides us a life saving extra NINE FEET of stopping distance.

We train ourselves to REACT as quickly as possible to that visual input. We also use the time from the moment we start to squeeze that brake lever to decide how hard to squeeze it. That little decision is made AFTER we begin doing something about the threat, not before. Humans are damned smart after all.

So what could possibly be wrong with that scenario? Not a thing when you are travelling at highway speeds - it is a life saving learned behavior.

So then what is the purpose of this article? Well, you are not always traveling at highway speeds when you notice a threat and at very slow speeds, particularly if you are accelerating, your visual input can lie to you.

Consider ... you are stopped behind a vehicle which is also stopped at a signalled intersection with a red light. The light turns green and both you and the vehicle ahead of you begin to move. That is, you are both accelerating.

What your eyes show you is that the car ahead of you is pulling away from you - the gap between you and it is widening. But what your mind is telling you is that you have rolled on your throttle and your body is telling you that you are accelerating. So far, so good. But going back to your mind for a moment, your experience is such that you EXPECT the gap between you and the vehicle ahead of you to be getting smaller OR YOU ARE LOSING THE RACE! That, in turn, causes you to roll on the throttle even farther.

The two second rule remains just as valid at 5 MPH as it is at 60 MPH. When you were stopped at the light you were very close (relatively) to the back of the vehicle ahead of you. As both vehicles begin accelerating the gap between them MUST WIDEN in order to provide that two seconds worth of space. But your mind, if it is not 'in the present', if you are simply going through the motions without active thoughts controlling your behavior, expects the gap to get smaller. You are not a 'loser' of races, after all. So, there is a time when both your eyes and your mind misinterpret a widening gap and prior experience causes you to INAPPROPRIATELY respond by rolling on even more throttle. But that is essentially no big deal, not particularly dangerous. It becomes dangerous

RIDE EDUCATOR

Ron Harford

330-276-276

rlharford@embarqmail.com

when that vehicle then unexpectedly hits its brakes! Then your eyes are in a conflict of interest position. They show that the distance between you and the vehicle you are following is narrowing - just as you expected because you have rolled on that throttle. And instead of REACTING as quickly as possible to avoid the collision, a delay occurs as your mind gets out of racing mode and into survival mode. Covering the front brake lever saves you 1/10th of a second when you need it, which is significant if you have distance to stop, but you have, by rolling on that throttle, eliminated (shortened) the gap - there isn't two seconds of space there as there should be, and you end up biting the rear-end of that vehicle with your front wheel - and the pain begins. Get and maintain that two second following distance IMMEDIATELY, especially when starting from a dead stop.

SUNSHINE LADY

As I'm writing, we are in the Memorial Day weekend -- I would like to give a big THANK YOU to our Chapter I veterans, other Goldwing members and to all who have served our country.

We've had many activities this past month of which many attended. Was glad to see Sue Jester out to the sectional picnic, she's now down to a smaller cast this past week and we're praying that Rob will be feeling better after his trip to CC this past Friday. I heard from the Burchfield's and Helen is home after being in two different hospitals recently of which the last the team of doctors feel she's been overly medicated. We'll be praying that with their help she'll be feeling much better soon. Have had no other word from anyone else, but keeping everyone in our prayers.

Do remember the date of our upcoming gathering will be the 20th of June. That will be a busy day for many as we need to visit the BLACKBURN TRIKE -- open house. This will be the first for the new owners and a remembrance for Wayne and Gloria Blackburn, wishing them well on their new venture of which we'll be looking forward to them riding and camping with us in their spare time. The following weekend -- June 11//13 will be the Buckeye Rally at the Canfield Fairground. CONGRATULATIONS to all graduates, be it high school or college.
